Carolina supreme court named for the vacancy. Senator Tillman, chairman of the naval affairs committee, could not muster a quorum of his committee today to discuss his bill for construction of a government armor plate plant. Action on the measure, which Senator Tillman hopes the committee will report favorably without further delay, was deferred until Tuesday.

Carolina supreme court named for the vacancy. Senator Chilton and the West Virginia democrats are going to lay before the President the qualifications of John W. Davis of that state, solicitor general in the Department of Justice. Many other suggestions will be before the President within another week or ten days.

The talk of former President William H. Taft is growing, but it was said today by those in touch with the situation that the one serious objection to Mr. Taft is that, being a republican, the political complexion of the court would be almost one-sided if he should be named.

Only Two Democrats on Bench.

Of the eight members of the court including the Chief Justice, only two are democrats; they are Chief Justice White and Associate Justice Mc-Reynolds. Justice Lamar was a democrat, although named by President Taft. The nomination of a democrat on the bench would give the democrats three members of the body. At the time President Taft named Associate Justices Lurton and Lamar to the court the democrats were even further in the minority, but President Taft too kthe position that there should be greater democratic representation and did not hesitate to face severe criticism in his party for giving high honors to democrats. A man strongly talked of today is Frederick W. Lehmann of St. Louis, ormer solicitor general of the Departnent of Justice. Mr. Lehmann, although a democrat, was also selected as solicitor general by President Taft. Mr. Lehmann could have continued in that position under President Wilson, but preferred to return to his law practice. He was seriously considered by Mr. Wilson for the court when Justice Lurton died, but Mr. McReynolds was nominated. Against Mr. Lehmann, however, is urged the report that he is going over the country delivering proferman speeches that criticise the administration.
